Pending Decision

Minot, April 2.—An order to show cause why a temporary receiver should not be appointed pending trial of the action in which the state seeks to dissolve the Great American Gas and Oil Company of Minot is scheduled for hearing before Judge A. G. Burr of Rugby sometime this month, according to Attorney Francis Murphy of this city, who has been named assistant attorney-general to handle the matter for the state.

The action against the oil company is brought, according to Mr. Murphy on the theory that the company is a stock-selling scheme. The stockholders in the company number several hundred and according to the last report of a state examiner made a few weeks ago a total of $213,950 has been subscribed for stock in the corporation. Expenditures for organization and operation as set forth in the state examiner's report amount to $158,000.

The major part of the stock in the company is held by North Dakotans, although it also has been sold throughout Minnesota, Iowa and other middlewestern states.

The hearing on the order of Judge Burr to show cause why a temporary receiver should not be named originally was scheduled to be held at Grand Forks on March 20 but was postponed because of a continuance.

During the meantime the officers of the gas and oil company are restrained from doing any corporate acts and from disposing of company assets.

At the time the company was organized authorization was given it to issue $300,000 worth of capital stock.

Capitalized at $300,000, The North American Gas and Oil company was suspended from selling stock last August by the state blue sky commission, R. J. Murphy, secretary said today, and action to dissolve the company was placed in the hands of Attorney Francis Murphy at Minot after consideration by the Attorney-General and blue sky commission.

The company, according to records in Mr. Murphy's office, is capitalized at $300,000 and officers are: President and manager, William Clifford Mohall; vice-president, E. H. Sinkler, Minot; Secretary, J. E. Bryans, Mohall.

The company had started a well at Mohall, Mr. Murphy said.

Body Lies in State—Inquest
Fails to Develop Different Circumstances

Ellen Albertson, victim of the murderous attack of George Haneckey, will be laid to rest in the family lot at the little village of Still, in northern Burleigh county, Tuesday afternoon. The body will lie beside her mother and brothers and sisters who have gone before. The body will be taken to Baldwin tomorrow morning, and funeral services will be held at the family home at 1 o'clock.

Scores of neighbors from Baldwin and other places in northern Burleigh county came to Bismarck Sunday afternoon, to pay a last tribute to the victim of the double tragedy on Friday afternoon. The body lay in state at the Webb chapel for two hours, from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m., and many strong men who had known the girl for many years broke down and cried as they viewed her face.

Meanwhile Coroner Gobel was endeavoring to locate a brother of Haneckey, said to own a line of pleasure boats at Tacoma, Washington, to obtain authority for disposition of the body.

With a coroner's jury reporting that Haneckey killed the girl and committed suicide, there remained officially only the disposition of the remains of the victim.

The coroner's jury was composed of Norman McDonald of Bismarck, J. E. Kruse of Moffit, and J. W. Friedle of Bismarck.

Inquest Held
The inquest held Saturday afternoon developed little new on the tragedy, and was cut short before all witnesses had been examined, the jury being satisfied of the facts.

E. L. Albertson, father of the girl, was questioned at length concerning the character and actions of Haneckey, who also is known to be in Pittsfield, Ill. Haneckey exhibits included photographs of the bodies of Haneckey, taken in the hayloft where it was found, and that of the girl, taken in the dining room, where it was found on the floor. An engagement ring given to the girl by Paul Angstrom, the stove shaker, the guns and other articles were included.

There also was a half-finished letter from the girl was written to Angstrom. In her letter she spoke of several friends being back home for Easter and of an anticipated pleasant time with a girl chum.

The stove shaker which the murderer used was made by himself.

The Bismarck city election, slow in getting under way, is closing in a flurry of activity, with the likelihood that there will be a good-sized vote polled when the voting places are closed tomorrow night.

Polls will be opened at 8 o'clock in the morning, giving many people an opportunity to vote before they go to work, and will close at 9 o'clock at night. Deputy secretary of State J. W. Duffy said that the enactment of the recent legislature which provided new hours of closing for municipal elections did not carry an emergency and will not be effective until July 1.

There were 3,476 votes polled for governor in Bismarck at the last election for governor, and the vote is expected to exceed 3,000, although the absent voters' ballot is not used in city elections.

The chief interest centers in the election of two city commissioners, the fight centering between John I. French and John A. Larson on the one side and F. W. Murphy and A. C. Hinekey on the other. W. S. Caselman is opposing W. C. Cashman for police manager.

He H. Crane, whose name alone appears on the ballot for city justice of the peace, will be opposed by Nick Peters, making the race on "stickers." He has supplied many friends with "stickers." He said that illness prevented him from getting signatures to go on the ballot in the regular way.

LAWYER TEARS MASKS FROM MEN DURING SERVICE

Pittsburg, Pa., April 2.—Rimer A. Kidney, a lawyer, who yesterday tore the masks of half a dozen hooded men in the Bellevue Methodist Episcopal church, today refused to discuss the incident other than to say he had planned which would develop in due time.

The Rev. Dr. Umy, who was in the pulpit at the church in the midst of Easter Morning services when the men entered, said he would have nothing to do with the matter. Any action Mr. Kidney may take will be for himself and not for the church.

"So far as I am concerned," said Dr. Umy, "the incident is closed."

WOMAN IS NOW CENTRAL FIGURE IN DOROTHY KEENAN MURDER CASE

New York, April 2.—A woman now is the central figure in the police pursuit of clues to the solution of the mystery of the murder of Dorothy Keenan, who was shot and died within 12 hours of her arrest for some time had been trailing the sweetheart of a man who for several days has been under suspicion, chiefly because he has been unable to account for his actions between midnight on the night of the murder and 8 o'clock next morning.

POLITICS IS NOT WORRYING PRES. HARDING

Secretary Davis Declares He's
More Concerned About
His Work

A POOR ADVERTISER

Davis Says Any Boston Gro-
cer Would Beat President
at "Selling Himself"

Boston, Mass., April 2.—President Harding is not "bothering his head much about politics of 1924," Secretary Davis told the Women's Republican club of Boston in a speech here today. The President's Secretary of Labor after expressing his views of women's place in politics discussed Mr. Harding's attitude toward the forthcoming presidential campaign.

The President's plans seem to be worrying many of our people Mr. Davis said. "I think that every newspaper man I have talked to for the past month or so has wanted to know what they are. Well, I'll tell you something about the President."

"President Harding is probably the poorest advertiser in the United States today. The smallest corner grocer in Boston could undoubtedly beat him at the game of getting himself sold, as they call it. I, the public, this is the time of our old and respected friend, Theodore Roosevelt, who had the faculty of letting folks know what he was doing and how fast he was doing it."

"President Harding reminds me of the man who was made boss of the mills back in the days when I worked with my hands. This mill worker was a man nobody could beat. He never had engaged in any of the ordinary disputes about the plant. But the quiet man got the job, and he found out why. He worked at his job. He didn't talk about it. Well, that is President Harding. He works at his job. He doesn't talk about it. When I have sought to point out that there is a campaign coming and a little advertising for the administration would not do any harm he has told me he is not a showman, not a stage director. He holds the best politics today."

"The people just between you and me President Harding is not bothering much about the politics of 1924. He is spending his time working for the people of the nation. He didn't talk today, tomorrow and 100 years from now."

ROBBERS TAKE MAIL IN BOLD TRUCK HOLDUP

Cover Driver and Messenger of U. S. Mail Truck in St. Louis Street

St. Louis, April 2.—Nine pouches of registered mail were obtained in a hold-up of a mail truck in the business district here today. Police asserted it was the boldest robbery in the city's history. The mail was for delivery to large business firms, including banks and brokerage houses.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Ruten stated a hurried check-up showed there were 327 letters in the pouches and indications were that their value would not exceed $2,000.

At Fourth and Pine streets, near the postoffice, it was announced a dark colored touring car drove alongside the truck and five men jumped out. They covered the chauffeur of the truck and a messenger, both of whom were armed with shotguns and compelled the messenger to get into the touring car.

The chauffeur of the mail truck then was ordered to drive to an alley about four blocks away. The messenger was relieved of his keys and the safe-door of the truck was opened by the robbers. The robbers threw the mail into the touring car and after placing the messenger and chauffeur into the cage of the truck, drove off.

A negro passing by several minutes later released the messenger and chauffeur.

BEST CROP YIELDS IN WESTERN NORTH DAKOTA COME WITH LATE SPINGS, WEATHER RECORDS SHOW

There is cheer in the United States weather bureau records for those who complain of a late spring.

Records show, according to O. W. Roberts, observer here, that the best crop yields in western North Dakota have always occurred during periods of late springs, while the poorest crops come after broken winters. Mr. Roberts said today:

"The regular corn and wheat region service of the Weather Bureau opens each year on April 1st. A great deal of interest is felt at this time of the year in crop and soil conditions, and in reply to an inquiry the Weather Bureau Office issued the following statement:

"Practically no spring work on farms in North Dakota has as yet been done. Usually at this time of the year considerable farm work has been accomplished, especially in the preparation of the soil for seeding. In many instances much seeding has been done in March, and in a few instances in February. While farmers may be impatient to begin spring work, statistics show that the best yields have occurred with late springs, and the poorer yields with early springs. The latter is particularly true of 1919, when one of the poorest crop yields in the state resulted. The mean temperature for March that year was 43 degrees, the highest in the climatological history of the state for that month. The snow covering in the state gradually decreased at the close of the month from five inches in the northwestern part to none what ever in the southwestern part. The snow covering has been ample for winter rye and that crop came through the winter in generally good condition."

YOUNG HOLDS LAKES-TO-SEA ROUTE COMING

Congressman, Here, Sees Success of Great Lakes-St.
Lawrence Project

PLANS FOR FINANCING

Sixty-Seventh Congress Had
Remarkable Agricultural
Program, He Says

Firm belief that the proposed deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the sea will come within the next few years was expressed by Congressman George M. Young of Second North Dakota district, here from Valley City for a day's visit.

Opposition to this project, financing the Northwest seven hundred miles closer to ocean transportation, is being beaten down, Mr. Young believes.

Asked concerning probable legislation on this subject, Mr. Young said that the sections of President Harding's message with respect to raising funds to provide for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway are before the house committee on ways and means, of which Mr. Young is a member. During the present adjournment of Congress, the first step toward the project, Mr. Young is devoting considerable time to consideration of revenue-raising means for the project. He expects to present a bill to the national house when it reconvenes next December proposing definite methods of financing the project.

"A majority of the House of Representatives is in favor of a deep waterway," said Rep. Young. "It was demonstrated when a motion to send the bill to the committee on rivers and harbors, known to be hostile to it, was killed. In fact, the bill was voted by a large majority to the committee on Interstate Commerce known to be friendly to the project."

Difficulty in Canada.
Some delay at this time is caused by Canada, where the McKenzie King government has a majority of only one. According to Mr. Young, if it fails to retain a majority in the house of commons, Montreal is just as stubborn and selfish as New York.

Mr. Young said that the McKenzie government has six members of parliament who support the present McKenzie King government, but will not support the deep waterway, he is powerless to proceed. That, however, is looked upon as only a temporary obstacle. The selfishness of Montreal is not a permanent barrier to stand in the way of progress.

Asked concerning the effect of the agricultural credits legislation of the recent congress, Mr. Young said that "there never has been session of Congress credited with as much agricultural legislation as the Sixty-Seventh."

"When Congress adjourned March 4," he said, "legislation which had been asked for by farmers' organizations had been enacted with the exception of the guarantee price of wheat. The farmers were united on that subject. More than one-half the farmers of the country were opposed to it. Too call came chiefly from the Northwest, but was opposed by the east, south and southwest."

Blames Speculators.
Mr. Young asserted his belief that the tariff law of the Sixty-Seventh Congress was not responsible for the rise in price of sugar.

"I don't believe the tariff had anything to do with the present price of sugar," he said. "Sugar went down immediately after the new tariff law went into effect. The robbing speculators would, of course, have the public believe this sharp advance in prices was caused by the tariff or anything else which will divert suspicion from themselves."

All three men were charged with conspiracy in a true bill containing 14 counts. Seven of these counts charge violation of state statutes and the other seven violations of the common law.

APPLICATIONS CONSIDERED ON AUTO BUS LINES

Application blanks were forwarded today to numerous persons and firms who have signified their intention to seek certificate for the operation of inter-city motor transportation line in North Dakota under the law of the recent legislature which put regulation of such business in the hands of the state road commission. It was said today by "Tom" Krupp, chairman in charge of the preparations for enforcement of the law. A meeting probably will be held within a week to pass upon applications, he added.

RURAL CREDITS INTEREST RATE CUT BY B. OF N. D.

Reduced From 6 1/2 to 6 Per Cent Effective Today. It Is Announced

ON BASIS BOND SALE

Collection Department to be Established as Result of Recent Law

Reduction of the rate of interest charged on farm loans made through the farm loan department of the Bank of North Dakota, authorized by the Industrial Commission, became effective today, it was announced by C. R. Green, manager of the bank. The decrease is from 6 1/2 to 6 per cent a year.

The reduction is made on the basis for figuring rates provided in the new farm loan law enacted by the legislature at its recent session, the law becoming effective on April 1 by virtue of the bond issue provisions being made effective on that date.

While the rate as a whole is reduced one-half per cent, the actual reduction in the cost of loans is figured at one per cent a year. There is an increase of one-half per cent a year permitted under the law to provide for the administration of the law. The law is intended to take care of losses, it was stated. Under the previous law while there was provision for levying and administration charge there was no payment of interest on the part of the borrower, consequently there was no legal basis for meeting the operating expenses. Under the new law the administrative charge is retained by the department.

The maximum interest rate that could be charged by the bank under the law at the present time is 6 1/2 per cent. The rate of interest being provided that the interest rate shall be based on the last sale of bonds and one per cent annually may be added for operations and expenses. The last sale of bonds was at the rate of 5 1/2 per cent interest.

Under the new law, loans made in the future will be based upon a 28-year amortization period instead of 30 years. The amortization charge is 1 1/2 per cent of the loan each year; the entire principal being amortized in 28 years.

Under the new law it is made the duty of the Bank of North Dakota to establish a collection department, this duty being transferred from the state treasurer. Accountants now are engaged in laying out the system to be used in the collection department.

The farm loan department of the bank completed its highest month Saturday, it being announced that $500,000 of mortgages were delivered to the state treasurer during the month. Applications are now to be handled as rapidly as possible, it is stated, with the hope of clearing up all pending applications before new appraisals of lands are made.

It has been announced the Industrial Commission will sell $2,000,000 of real-estate bonds by the middle of May.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Ruten stated a hurried check-up showed there were 327 letters in the pouches and indications were that their value would not exceed $2,000.

At Fourth and Pine streets, near the sub-station, it was announced a day's delivery of mail was being made alongside the truck and five men jumped out. They covered the chauffeur of the truck and a messenger, both of whom were armed with shotguns and compelled the messenger to get into the touring car.

The chauffeur of the mail truck then was ordered to drive to an alley about four blocks away. The messenger was relieved of his keys and the safe-door of the truck was opened by the robbers. The robbers threw the mail into the touring car and after placing the messenger and chauffeur into the cage of the truck, drove off.

A negro passing by several minutes later released the messenger and chauffeur.

Mr. Young asserted belief that the tariff law of the Sixty-Seventh Congress was not responsible for the rise in price of sugar.

"I don't believe the tariff had anything to do with the present price of sugar," he said. "Sugar went down immediately after the new tariff law went into effect. The robbing speculators would, of course, have the public believe the sharp advance in prices was caused by the tariff or anything else which will divert suspicion from themselves."

POLITICS IS NOT WORRYING PRES. HARDING

Secretary Davis Declares He's
More Concerned About
His Work

A POOR ADVERTISER

Davis Says Any Boston Gro-
cer Would Beat President
at "Selling Himself"

Boston, Mass., April 2.—President Harding is not "bothering his head much about politics of 1924," Secretary Davis told the Women's Republican club of Boston in a speech here today. The President's Secretary of Labor after expressing his views of women's place in politics discussed Mr. Harding's attitude toward the forthcoming presidential campaign.

The President's plans seem to be worrying many of our people Mr. Davis said. "I think that every newspaper man I have talked to for the past month or so has wanted to know what they are. Well, I'll tell you something about the President."

"President Harding is probably the poorest advertiser in the United States today. The smallest corner grocer in Boston could undoubtedly give him a big handicap and then beat him at the game of getting himself sold," as they call it, to the public. This is not the time of our old and respected friend, Theodore Roosevelt, who had the faculty of letting folks know what he was doing and how fast he was doing it. President Harding reminds me of the man who was made boss of the mills back in the days when I worked with my hands. This mill worker was a man nobody ever noticed. He never had engaged in any of the ordinary disputes about the plant. But the quiet man got the job, and he found out that he was doing it. He didn't talk about it. Well, that is President Harding. He works at his job he doesn't talk about it. I have sought to point out that there is a campaign of 1924 coming and that a little advertisement for the administration would not do any harm he has told me he is not a showman and not a stage director. He holds the best politics today is the service to the people. Just between you and me President Harding is not bothering much about the politics of 1924. He is spending his time working for the people of the United States today, tomorrow and 100 years from now."

ROBBERS TAKE MAIL IN BOLD TRUCK HOLDUP

St. Louis, April 2.—Nine pouches of registered mail were obtained in a hold-up of a mail truck in the business district here today. Police asserted it was the boldest robbery in the city's history. The mail was for delivery to large business firms, including banks and brokerage houses.

Chief Postoffice Inspector Ruten stated a hurried check-up showed there were 327 letters in the pouches and indications were that their value would not exceed $2,000.

BEST CROP YIELDS IN WESTERN NORTH DAKOTA COME WITH LATE SPINGS, WEATHER RECORDS SHOW

There is cheer in the United States weather bureau records for those who complain of a late spring.

Records show, according to O. W. Roberts, observer here, that the best crop yields in western North Dakota have always occurred during periods of late springs, while the poorest crops come after broken winters. Mr. Roberts said today:

"The regular corn and wheat region service of the Weather Bureau opens each year on April 1st. A great deal of interest is felt at this time of the year in crop and soil conditions, and in reply to an inquiry the Weather Bureau Office issued the following statement:

"Practically no spring work on farms in North Dakota has as yet been done. Usually at this time of the year considerable farm work has been accomplished, especially in the preparation of the soil for seeding. In many instances much seeding has been done in March, and in a few instances in February. While farmers may be impatient to begin spring work, statistics show that the best yields have occurred with late springs, and the poorer yields with early springs. The latter is particularly true of 1910, when the late onset of the crop yields in the State resulted. The mean temperature for March that year was 43 degrees, the highest in the climatological history of the State for that month. The snow covering in the State gradually decreased at the close of the month from five inches in the northwestern part to none what ever in the southwestern part. The snow covering has been ample for winter and that crop came through the winter in generally good condition.

Congressman, Here, Sees Success

PLANS FOR FINANCING

Sixty-Seventh Congress Had
Remarkable Agricultural
Program, He Says

Firm belief that the proposed deep waterway from the Great Lakes to the sea will come within the next few years was expressed by Congressman George M. Young of the Second North Dakota district, here today. Mr. Young, who is a member of the House of Representatives, is in the city on a tour of the Northwest several hundred miles closer to ocean transportation, is being beaten down, Mr. Young believes.

Asked concerning probable legislation on this subject, Mr. Young said that the sections of President Harding's message with respect to raising funds to provide for the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence deep waterway are before the house committee on ways and means, of which Mr. Young is a member. During the present session of Congress, the first real vacation in eight years, Mr. Young is devoting considerable time to consideration of revenue-raising means for the project. He expects to present a bill to the national house when it reconvenes next December proposing definite methods of financing the project.

"A majority of the House of Representatives is in favor of a deep waterway," said Rep. Young. "This was demonstrated when a motion to amend the bill to the committee on the house of commons, Montreal, is being beaten down, Mr. Young believes.

Indictments of Grand Jury
Followed Charges of Tam-

CONSPIRACY CHARGE

Fourteen Counts Included in Charges Made Against Indicted Men

Waukegan, Ill., April 2.—J. B. Fields, a juror in the trial and acquittal of Governor Len Small last year, Edward Kaufman and Edward Courtney, both of Chicago, were named in indictments returned today as a result of the grand jury investigation of charges of tampering with the Small jury.

All three men were charged with conspiracy in a true bill containing 14 counts. Seven of these counts charge violation of state statutes and the other seven violations of the common law.

APPLICATIONS CONSIDERED ON AUTO BUS LINES

Application blanks were forwarded today to numerous persons and firms who have signified their intention to seek certificate for the operation of inter-city motor transportation line in North Dakota under the law of the recent legislature which put regulation of such business in the hands of the state railroad commission, it was said today by Commissioner Fay Harding, in charge of the state's enforcement of the law. A meeting probably will be held within a week to pass upon applications, he added.

DIRECTORS OF KRUPP WORKS DENY CHARGES

Declare They Were Not Responsible for Inciting
Trouble in Plant

ARRESTED BY FRENCH

Essen, Germany, April 2.—Herr Shaffer, director of the Krupp plant, today said the four directors arrested yesterday on charges of inciting last Saturday's shooting were in no way responsible for the trouble. The French allege that the blowing of the sirens at the works which incited the men could have been stopped by the officials, even if they had not ordered the signal. Herr Shaffer said that it is customary for the men to blow the siren as a fire signal or when there is sign of danger of any kind.

Herr Hartwig, Gesterlin, Ritter, by Bruhn, the directors held, were arrested at their homes early Easter morning. The Krupp plant to be closed at least until Wednesday so that the excitement occasioned by the events of the week-end may completely die down.

Throng Churches For Services

Bismarck churches were thronged Sunday for Easter services. The bright sunshine of the early morning brought out hundreds of people for the morning services and special musical programs given Sunday night also attracted large numbers.

Fixed Date for Easter Advocated in England

London, April 2.—An effort is being made by a number of Englishmen led by Lord Desborough to obtain a general agreement on the question of a fixed date for Easter. Lord Desborough recently stated that a motion to this effect will be offered at the next meeting of the International Chamber of Commerce on the ground that the variance of Easter is inconvenient not only to business people, but also to the legal profession and to schools and universities. He will leave next month for Rome to ask the Pope to consider the matter.

It is understood that the heads of the Church of England have already been approached on the subject, but answered that they had not the power to change the present system. It has been suggested that the second Sunday in April should be fixed as the immovable date.

CONVERSION OF GRAIN IS CHARGE MADE

Many Legal Problems Involved in Equity Suit on Trial at Fargo

Fargo, April 2.—The case of C. J. Clark and Harry H. Martin vs. the Equity Co-operative exchange, involving a claim for $30,100 for grain which, it is alleged, the defendant obtained from the defunct Farmers Co-operative Elevator and Trading company of Crosby, and used for its own purposes, began in district court before Judge A. T. Cole.

The plaintiffs are suing to recover for a large amount of grain which was sold to the Farmers Co-operative Elevator and Trading company, at various times in 1919, 1920 and 1921, for which they obtained storage tickets. The grain, they declare, was taken over by the Equity Co-operative exchange without their knowledge or consent and that the equity company converted the grain "to its own purposes and benefit" the entire amount.

The claim was: $9,600 for 3,400 bushels of No. 1 spring wheat; $2,000 for 1,000 bushels of No. 2 spring wheat; $500 for 200 bushels of No. 3 spring wheat and $9,000 for 4,500 bushels of durum wheat.

Important Question.

The case involves an important question of law, is a commission house liable to storage tickets holders after once having paid an elevator in full for the grain?

The plaintiff, Mr. Clark and Mr. Martin, are suing on a number of tickets assigned them by various farmers in Divide county, and they claim a conversion of their grain on the part of the Equity.

The equity company claims that the Farmers Co-operative Elevator and Trading company of Crosby, sent the grain to it for sale on commission, and that it settled the bill for the grain it received. It is claimed, however, that the Equity did not receive all the grain sent out by the Crosby elevator, and that, if liable at all, its liability should be reduced to the amount of the value of the grain sent elsewhere.

Settled Once, Defense.

The chief defense, however, is that having once settled with the elevator company, the Equity is not liable again to holders of tickets.

FUNERAL RITES AT ALBERTSON HOME TUESDAY

Several years ago, Mr. Albertson said, the rifle he thought belonged to Hanecke while the old double-barrel shotgun which Hanecke used was that of Mr. Albertson's. He said he believed there were but two shells in the house, one which was used by Hanecke.

Just before. There

Asked about how Hanecke came to be at his house, Mr. Albertson said he had known him in Bismarck but that he believed Hanecke came to his house last summer with a boy. He said he told Hanecke that he was not working and that he would make an all winter visit. He said he had paid Hanecke for helping to stack grain, but that the man said he did not expect it.

He said that shortly before the big February snowstorm his daughter, Ellen, had told him that she didn't like to see Hanecke around. Albertson said he tried to smooth it over.

"I couldn't chase him away," said Mr. Albertson. "He had helped me there and he was company."

He said his daughter didn't like Hanecke's way of arguing, and that Hanecke was a little queer. Asked if his daughter ever said she feared Hanecke he replied that he believed she once remarked "Oh, I'm not afraid of him."

"She wasn't afraid of him, it seems like, and there wasn't any reason for her to be," said the father.

He said Hanecke never made threats or mentioned the girl's name except in passing way. He declared Hanecke was not in love with his daughter and didn't think they ever quarreled.

"What kind of a fellow was he?"

"Well, he really was a good fellow, and I was told so in town today," replied the slain girl's father.

He said he knew Hanecke had been in prison "for hitting a girl."

Girls Body Warm

He said the girl's body was still warm when he got to the house after having brought a load of coal. He saw the guns and looked first to

TOSSED A SOCIAL BOMBSHELL

Exclusive Massachusetts society was given its sensation of the season when Grace Draper of Hopdale, Mass., 18-year-old daughter of one of Massachusetts most prominent families, eloped with her first cousin, Harry E. see if a shell had been taken from a drawer. She looked for Hanecke, and later called a neighbor on the phone, and she spend the news.

He said he looked up in the hay-loft once, but didn't see the dead man. He declared his belief that Hanecke had gone crazy and he seemed sure he would find Hanecke's body in the field someplace.

Asked if there was a struggle, he said he didn't think so. He said the girl's clothes were smoothed down. The table where she had been writing was turned around, he said, a fountain pen was on the floor and an unfinished letter on the table. He said there were some blood spots on the wall. Later, when a photograph was displayed, showing the girl's clothes, were disarranged he said he must have been mistaken in his memory of the way the body looked when he first saw it.

Detective Phelps told of the find of the body on the arrival of a party of officers at the Albertson home. The party included Sheriff Redstrom, Chief of Police Martinson, Anton Beer and a photographer.

Mr. Phelps said that, knowing the characteristics of Hanecke, he believed that he took the guns to the barn with the intention of making a stand against capture, but he got cold feet.

He said Hanecke had a violent temper. Asked concerning the condition of Hanecke on the police force in Bismarck he said that he hung around the station but didn't think he was a regular officer. He said he was more of a "stool pigeon," he thought.

He described the torn condition of the girl's clothes and the table, indicating the girl had struggled against Hanecke.

Horses Gone Clue

M. Bentley of Baldwin, first man at the scene, said that when he opened the barn to put Albertson's horses in the horses would not go in, and began snorting. He remarked that he had better put them in the first stall, although Albertson said to put them in the third stall. He put them in the second. Later when a party came they searched the first stall, one in the lead with a revolver, and found Hanecke dead.

Charles Blackwell, formerly of Bismarck, who had been put in charge of the place by officers, said that nothing was moved until removal of the bodies was ordered by officers. He said Hanecke was, rather, hot-headed. Asked about Hanecke's police connections he said that Hanecke was not a regular policeman, that he had acted on special occasions in crossing duty and as a "shadow."

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN IS HELD

Mrs. J. R. Hare Accused in Twin City Shoplifting

Mrs. J. R. Hare, formerly of Bismarck, is under arrest in St. Paul, charged with having participated in a shop-lifting scheme in which booty was taken from nine Twin City department stores, according to the St. Paul Dispatch. Valuable silks, furs and wearing apparel worth $5,000 were found at 2840 Cedar avenue, Minneapolis, the address given by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dwyer who were arrested Wednesday, the account states. Mrs. Bessie Lesman, who gave her address as 2627 Cedar avenue, Minneapolis, also was arrested as a member of the alleged gang.

The arrest was made when police noticed big black bags carried by the women bulged suspiciously. Detective say they saw the contents of the bags stuffed under an automobile seat, and the bags again filled with merchandise.

They gave their names as Mrs. Bessie Dwyer, 42 years old and Roy Dwyer, 43 years old, her husband. The second woman gave her name as Mrs. Bessie Lesman, 25 alias Mrs. J. R. Hare alias Violet Hare,

DISABLED VETS HEAD OUTLINES PLANS OF AID

Completion of Present Hospital Plan of U. S. Is Demanded by Capt. Cook

ORPHANAGE PLANNED

Capt. C. Hamilton Cook, national commander of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, was the principle speaker at a banquet Saturday evening at the Grand Pacific Hotel given by the local chapter of Disabled Veterans. Representatives of the War Mothers, the Red Cross, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary and other representative citizens of Bismarck, including 10 members of the local chapter of disabled men were present, and heard Capt. Cook's message.

Captain Cook showed a thorough familiarity with the problem of the disabled soldier and his discussion was along the line of constructive criticism. He insisted that the promise given at the time of the war to take care of those injured in the service must be kept out; and that the best care and treatment known to medical science is the least that can be done in the fulfillment of that promise. He insisted upon the completion of the present hospital plan with emergency speed and cited instances where with available funds there had been inexcusable delays in providing hospital facilities.

Orphanage Plan.

The establishment of orphanages for the children of ex-service men was another feature of the problem which he outlined as that for which the disabled veterans organization stands. Such orphan he said were entitled to the same consideration from the government as are Indian orphans. He also advocated that the veterans bureau should organize a chaplains corps to assist the disabled men in the government hospital. Chaplains, he pointed out could be of great help to the men when they receive their government compensation for what in many cases become the play of unscrupulous stock salesmen and other investment sharks. The whole system of vocational training as established by the government bureau is unsatisfactory, said Captain Cook. First because the government failed to recognize the necessity of putting trainees into recognized educational institutions and sent a very large percent of the trainees to mushroom institutions which sprang up for the sole purpose of making money out of the government training law. Secondly, because in many instances no recognition of the disabled trainees previous education was taken into consideration, nor of his adaptability to the trade for which he was given training and in many, many instances the desires of the trainees though reasonable were ignored and trainees were forced into training for trades for which they neither had any aptitude or inclination. Thirdly, because the training period allowed by the government was almost universally too short and was shorter than the time recognized as necessary by trade unions and recognized educators.

Urges Training.

Captain Cook stated that the veterans bureau should give placements of government so that at the end of the three or six months period the trainees can take qualified examinations for civil service appointments. At present he stated the government's own trainees because of the inadequacy of the training period are not allowed to take examinations for government positions in the various departments.

Captain Cook stated that the disabled veterans would in the immediate future ask President Harding to make an extensive order to make it possible for training in the departments of government looking forward to the possibility of taking examination for permanent positions with the government.

He said high tribute to the other patriotic and veteran organizations and stated that Commander Owsley of the American Legion worked with him shoulder to shoulder in the interest of the disabled men.

Captain Cook make a fine impression on all who heard him. Muckraking was noticeably absent in his remarks and he displayed an earnest desire to cooperate with the government in solving the many difficult problems growing out of the war. He is now on a tour which will take him into nearly every state of the union.

GRAIN PRICES IMPROVE IN FEBRUARY

Mill City Livestock Market
Declined Between January and February

General prosperity in the farming regions of the Northwest is very largely dependent upon the price situation for agricultural products. During February there was a slight improvement in the prices of grain and considerable improvement in the price of flax. This change in grain prices, coupled with the fact that the United States is an exporter of wheat, and an importer of flax, gives a sound basis for the proposals now being made that the farmers of the Northwest be urged to cut down their wheat acreage and increase their flax acreage during the planting season immediately in prospect. There were mixed trends in the prices of livestock but the most significant changes were the declines for hogs and lambs, which apparently indicate that stocking up in these two lines is a little near the saturation point, although so much dependence must not be placed upon conditions in such a month as February with its adverse weather conditions.

In spite of this lack of normal purchasing power in the farming communities which has prevailed during recent months, business volume in many centers has been sustained by very active building operations. These operations have continued in such large volume as to have strengthened building material prices considerably. It is therefore important to observe the tendencies of builders, as shown by building permits requested, during the next few months, in order to make an accurate estimate of business conditions which will presumably prevail until the size and value of the next crop becomes known. At the present moment the volume of building is estimated at a level above that of a year ago.

The volume of general business in the Northwest usually declines in midwinter, owing to weather conditions and this year has been no exception to the rule. It is very satisfactory, however, to note that there has been a substantial improvement in the sales of agricultural implements at wholesale during the month and that the total volume of business in all lines is considerably above a year ago.

Receipts of all grains at Minneapolis and the head of the lakes declined seasonally between January and February. Receipts of wheat and flax showed the greatest declines and were only one-half as large in February as in January. As compared with the ten-year average for February, receipts of wheat in February, 1923, were above the normal amount, and receipts of flax were four times as large as this average. Receipts of oats were one-fourth below the average amount for February and barley and flax about one-half lower. Receipts of rye were four times as large in February this year as in February a year ago and receipts of wheat, barley and flax were larger in February this year than a year ago, while corn and oats were smaller.

Livestock marketing at St. Paul declined between January and February, which was a seasonal movement for all classes except calves. Sheep receipts in particular, were down one-half. February receipts of cattle, calves and hogs were larger than a year ago, but receipts of sheep were one-fourth lower. Shipments of feed stock to the country from South St. Paul declined between January and February, although very slightly in the case of hogs. Shipments of feeder sheep were less than one-half as large.

Prices of the principal northwest farm products showed mixed tendencies during the month of February. A majority of the grain prices increased and the majority of livestock prices declined.

There's no sense in mixing a mess of mustard, flour and water when you can easily relieve pain, soreness or stiffness with a little clean, white Musterole. Musterole usually gives prompt relief from sore throat, bronchitis, tonsillitis, croup, stiff neck, asthma, neuralgia, headache, congestion, pleurisy, rheumatism, lumbago, pains and aches of the back or joints, sprains, sore muscles, bruises, chilblains, frostbitten feet, colds of the chest (it may prevent pneumonia). 35c and 65c, jars and tubes.

THE CHANGED VIEWS OF MR. TOWNLEY

Former Nonpartisan League Chief Makes Frank Statement of Ideas on Farm Economic Problems.

The views of A. C. Townley on the farmers' problems, which he has stated have changed, are set forth with perhaps more clarity in an interview with George T. Odell in the Christian Science Monitor than in any other statement he has made recently. This newspaper has always been regarded by Nonpartisans as fair.

The difference in the views of Mr. Townley and those he formerly held, and are now held by many of his followers in North Dakota, is marked. If he commands the same attention he once did they may be of marked effect in the North Dakota political situation.

Among the things emphasized in Mr. Townley's interview are: He believes the only way that price-fixing on farm products can be successfully accomplished in America is by the farmers themselves.

His new organization, he says, might be called "The Chamber of Commerce of Agriculture." Its success, he says, lies in freedom from politics.

Farmers stores and meat-packing and milling businesses were not successful because they are a different line of business. "Each man to his trade," is Mr. Townley's motto.

He says "we succeeded in getting control of the state government but the enterprise was not successful" and that "I for one became convinced that there are forces in the economic system more powerful than the state which makes it impossible for state enterprises to succeed."

There are some of his friends, he says, who believe the federal government can succeed if the state cannot but adds "I don't."

Freedom From Politics. After Mr. Townley had outlined the plans of the National Producers' Alliance, Mr. Odell writes: "And with the central office direct the local units in the use of their political power?" I asked.

"Absolutely not," came Mr. Townley's prompt response. "The success of this movement as I see it lies in its absolute freedom from politics. Politics and partisanship must not be allowed to enter into any of its discussions or acts. The sole objective is greater efficiency in agriculture—that is the farmer's business. It might be called the Chamber of Commerce of Agriculture."

Curious to know just what circumstances had brought about such a revolution in his viewpoint I asked Mr. Townley to tell me frankly by what process he had arrived at his present conclusions. He replied:

Traces Experience.

"By experience. Let me go back a little and trace that experience. A good many years ago, the farmers in the northwest thought that they could improve their condition by going into business. They subscribed capital and set up local stores—small retail businesses. They struggled along, not very successfully, and some of them failed because the farmers who ran them were not adept at business. Then the idea was conceived that the reason these stores were not more successful was because they were not big enough, and so the farmers subscribed more capital and set themselves up in the wholesale business. But even that did not render them efficient service, and the wholesale business was unsuccessful because it was controlled by men who had neither the time nor training to conduct it.

"Next, someone came along with the proposal that the farmers ought to control the manufacture of their products, and the farmers were coerced into undertaking a meat-packing and milling industry. Both of those are highly specialized businesses, and the farmers were less adept in those than they were in retail and wholesale buying and selling. Then the idea was advanced that all those previous units of business had been too small and that the power of the State must be utilized between producer and consumer. That is where I came into it, and we organized politically in North Dakota in order to get the power to put that theory into operation.

Economies Outweigh State.

"We succeeded in getting control of the state government but the enterprise was not successful. We strove manfully, but I for one became convinced that there are forces in the economic system more powerful than the state which make it impossible for state enterprises to succeed. Some of my friends—most of them, I fear—still cling to their old beliefs. They think that if the State cannot succeed, the Federal Government can. I don't.

"If you analyze the economic system you find that it is made up of a number of services, each highly specialized and each necessary to the whole. The basis of it all is cost plus a reasonable profit. There are many elements entering into fair costs, which have not been adjusted, but I need not diverge into that field. But, I maintain that it is unsound for farmers to try to conduct such a highly specialized industry as meat packing, for instance, where experience has shown that he is absolutely at sea regarding costs. Even in their retail stores nine times out of ten the farmers did not know what it was costing them to do business. Why, as I have already said, they do not even know the costs of their primary business—farming.

"So I say, that each part in the service that goes to make up the economic system—production, transportation, distribution, and financing—must be performed by specialists, and the farmers' specialty is production. Let him stick to it. It is to make him a more efficient producer that the National Production League has been formed."

Each Man to His Trade.

Mr. Odell also was given this statement by Mr. Townley:

"I believe that the only way that price-fixing on farm products can be successfully accomplished in America is by the farmers themselves. I contend that they must rely on improved methods of efficiency in producing and marketing their crops and leave the business of manufacturing, transportation and distribution to those who are skilled in the performance of those particular services. My motto is, 'Each man to his trade' and the trade of the farmers is agriculture.

Farmers as Price Fixers.

"No agency of Government or business can fix the price of farm commodities as satisfactorily as the farmers themselves, and yet under present methods of American agriculture the farmers are not capable of arriving at a just and reasonable price.

"The basis of all prosperity for all producers, no matter what their commodity may be, is cost plus a fair and reasonable profit. The farmers do not know what it costs them to produce grain, eggs, poultry, milk, and live stock. They are not accountants; and they haven't the time to keep an elaborate system of books. But every farmer has a certain amount of experience regarding his costs of production and, by drawing upon that experience from a multitude of farmers and averaging the results, a very close estimate can be arrived at which will have the advantage of being fixed by the farmers themselves. The next problem is marketing to secure that cost plus a reasonable profit."

not creak or rattle in the heaviest service and will properly support the body at all times. Selected ash of first quality, free from all defects is used in the Overland sedan frames. The various pieces are of all conceivable shapes, lengths, and contours. Some have ends cut at various angles, some are square, and some are notched to fit into two or more pieces. Some are straight, others are bent into odd forms to conform to the corners and bends of the body.

In a touring car body when two pieces of metal are to be joined together they can be welded in the twinkling of an eye. In wood the procedure is very different. The two pieces must first be carefully fitted. When the fitting is done and the glue has been applied, the parts must be clamped together to hold them in place while the glue is drying and wood screws added to insure that the parts remain in place.

All of this work requires skilled labor and the expense is correspondingly high. After the frame has been completed the metal work is put in place and here again the parts must fit closely. The wind shield in an Overland sedan is an individual fitting job. It must be rain-proof, and wind-tight and still must open freely when the owner wishes to open it.

No Wrinkles

The cloth lining in the top must lie smoothly and without a wrinkle. The hangings on the sides and in the corners must follow the body lines perfectly and without wrinkling. The seat covers and the seat back covers of heavy cloth are made at a far greater expense than the upholstery of an open car. After the doors are fitted not only to the body proper, but to the windows that which go in them and also to the window control levers, locks, etc. the lining with the pocket attached and the holes for the door handle, window control, door pull, are nicely finished.

After the costs of the body building, fitting and upholstery work have been counted up there still remains one of the most expensive jobs in the entire work of closed body making. This is the painting. In the open bodies the finish is an enamel which is baked on. It is quickly applied to the body by mechanical devices, and instead of waiting for it to dry, it is placed in the big baking ovens where the hard lustrous finish is a matter of a few hours. Closed bodies cannot be finished in this way on account of the wood frames.

Consequently the older and more expensive method of hand rubbing in the various coats, rubbing and then varnishing coats, and rubbing must be resorted to. These facts give a fairly comprehensive insight as to why an Overland sedan costs $350 more than an Overland touring car.

It is not a mere boast to say that the publications of the United States and Canada are the most progressive and farthest advanced of any country in the world.

Eight years ago—in co-operation with advertisers and advertising agents—the leading publishers assisted in organizing the association which places the buying of advertising space on a Basis of Certainty.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations has pioneered the way from old-fashioned, haphazard methods to the modern method of buying space with the publisher's books open to the advertiser. Through this work a remarkably efficient system for auditing publications has been built up and today is applied to practically all the leading newspaper, magazines, farm papers, and trade papers of the United States and Canada.

That this system is economically sound and fills a real need in business, is shown by the fact that other countries have patterned their associations after the A. B. C.

England, France and Holland have taken steps to build up Auditing Bureaus that will give the advertiser and the publisher the same opportunity to meet on common business ground that they have in America.

Publishers of this continent willingly co-operate with the A. B. C. because they believe that in furnishing audited circulation figures to the advertisers they are co-operating in a way that will be mutually helpful.

After the costs of the body building, fitting and upholstering work have been counted up there still remains one of the most expensive jobs in the entire work of closed body making.

This is the painting. In the open bodies the finish is an enamel which is baked on. It is quickly applied to the body by mechanical devices, and instead of waiting for it to dry, it is placed in the big baking ovens where the hard lacquer finish is a matter of a few hours. Closed bodies cannot be finished in

A North American Association

—the model, all over the World

It is not a mere boast to say that the publications of the United States and Canada are the most progressive and farthest advanced of any country in the world.

Eight years ago—in co-operation with advertisers and advertising agents—the leading publishers assisted in organizing the association which places the buying of advertising space on a Basis of Certainty.

The Audit Bureau of Circulations has pioneered the way from old-fashioned, haphazard methods to the modern method of buying space with the publisher's books open to the advertiser. Through this work a remarkably efficient system for auditing publications has been built up and today is applied to practically all the leading newspaper, magazines, farm papers, and trade papers of the United States and Canada.

That this system is economically sound and fills a real need in business, is shown by the fact that other countries have patterned their associations after the A. B. C.

England, France and Holland have taken steps to build up Auditing Bureaus that will give the advertiser and the publisher the same opportunity to meet on common business ground that they have in America.

Publishers of this continent willingly co-operate with the A. B. C. because they believe that in furnishing audited circulation figures to the advertisers they are co-operating in a way that will be mutually helpful.

The Tribune is a member of the A. B. C., and would be pleased to submit a copy of the latest circulation report.

CONVERSION OF GRAIN IS CHARGE MADE

Many Legal Problems Involved in Equity Suit on Trial at Fargo

Fargo, April 2.—The case of C. J. Clark and Harry H. Martin vs. the Equity Co-operative exchange, involving a claim for $30,100 for grain which, it is alleged, the defendant obtained from the defunct Farmers Co-operative Elevator and Trading company of Crosby, and used for its own purposes, began in district court before Judge A. T. Cole.

The plaintiffs are suing to recover for a large amount of grain which was sold to the Farmers Co-operative Elevator and Trading company, at various times in 1919, 1920 and 1921, for which they obtained storage tickets. The grain, they declare was taken over by the Equity Co-operative exchange without their knowledge or consent and that the equity company converted the grain "to its own purposes and benefit" the entire amount.

The claims are: $9,600 for 3,400 bushels of No. 1 spring wheat; $22,000 for 1,500 bushels of No. 2 spring wheat; $500 for 200 bushels of No. 4 spring wheat and $9,000 for 4,500 bushels of durum wheat.

Important Question.
The case involves an important question of law: is a commission house liable to storage tickets holders after once having paid an elevator in full for the grain?

The plaintiff, Mr. Clark and Mr. Martin, are suing on a number of tickets assigned them by various farmers in Divide county, and they claim a conversion of their grain on the part of the Equity.

The Equity company claims that the Farmers Co-operative Elevator and Trading company of Crosby, sent the grain to it for sale on commission, and that it settled in full for the grain it received. It is claimed, however, that the Equity did not receive all the grain sent out by the Crosby elevator, and that, if liable at all, its liability should be reduced to the amount of the value of the grain sent elsewhere.

Settled Once, Defense.
The chief defense, however, is that having once settled with the elevators, the Equity is not liable again to holders of tickets.

FUNERAL RITES AT ALBERTSON HOME TUESDAY

several years ago, Mr. Albertson said. The rifle he thought belonged to Haneckey while the old double-barrel shotgun which Haneckey used was that of Mr. Albertson's. He said he believed there were but two shells in the double one which was used by Haneckey.

Just Remained There
Asked about how Haneckey came to be at his house, Mr. Albertson said he had known him in Bismarck but that he believed Haneckey came to his house last summer with a boy. He said he told Haneckey who he was not working to come and visit him, not anticipating that he would make an all winter visit. He said he had paid Haneckey for helping to stack grain, but that the man said he did not expect it.

He said that shortly before the big February snowstorm his daughter, Ellen, had told him that she didn't like to see Haneckey around. Albertson said he tried to smooth it over.

"I couldn't chase him away," said Mr. Albertson. "He had helped me there and he was company."

He said his daughter didn't like Haneckey's way of arguing, and that Haneckey was a little queer. Asked if his daughter ever said she feared Haneckey he replied that he believed she once remarked "Oh, I'm not afraid of him."

"She wasn't afraid of him, it seems like, and there wasn't any reason for her to be," said the father.

He said Haneckey never made threats or mentioned the girl's fiancée except in passing way. He declared Haneckey was not in love with his daughter and didn't think they ever quarreled.

"What kind of a fellow was he?" "Well, he really was a good fellow, and I was told so in town to-day," replied the slain girl's father. He said he knew Haneckey had been in prison "for hitting a girl."

Girls Body Warm
He said the girl's body was still warm when he got to the house, after having brought a load of coal. He saw the guns and looked first to

TOSSED A SOCIAL BOMBSHELL

Exclusive Massachusetts society was given its sensation of the season when Grace Draper of Hopedale, Mass., 18-year-old daughter of one of Massachusetts' most prominent families, eloped with her first cousin, Harry E. Charlton, of St. Louis. She is the grand-niece of Eben S. Draper, former governor of Massachusetts.

See if a shell had been taken from a drawer. He looked for Haneckey, and later called a neighbor on the phone, and she spread the news.

He said he looked up in the hayloft once, but didn't see the dead man. He declared his belief that Haneckey had gone crazy and he seemed sure he would find Haneckey's body in the field someplace.

Asked if there was a struggle, he said he didn't think so. He said the girl's clothes were smoothed down. The table where she had been writing was turned around, he said, a fountain pen was on the floor and an unfinished letter on the table. He said there were some blood spots on the wall. Later, when a photograph was displayed, showing the girl's clothes were disarranged he said he must have been mistaken in his memory of the way the body looked when he first saw it.

Deputy Sheriff Phelps told of the find of the body on the arrival of a party of officers at the Albertson home. The party included Sheriff Hedstrom, Chief of Police Martinson, Anton Beer and a photographer.

Mr. Phelps said that, knowing the characteristics of Haneckey, he believed that he took the guns to the barn with the intention of making a stand against capture, but he got cold feet.

He said Haneckey had a violent temper. Asked concerning the connection of Haneckey on the police force in Bismarck he said that he hung around the station but didn't think he was a regular officer. He said he was more of a "stool pigeon," he thought.

He described the torn condition of the girl's clothes and the table, indicating the girl had struggled against Haneckey.

Horse Gone Clue
M. Bentley of Baldwin, first man at the scene, said that when he opened the barn to put Albertson's horses in the horses would not go in, and began snorting. He remarked that he had better put them in the first stall, although Albertson said to put them in the third stall. He put them in the second. Later when a party came they searched the hayloft first, one in the lead with a revolver, and found Haneckey dead.

Charles Blackwell, formerly of Bismarck, who had been put in charge of the place by officers, said that nothing was moved until removal of the bodies was ordered by officers. He said Haneckey was rather hot-headed. Asked about Haneckey's police connections he said that Haneckey was not a regular policeman, that he had acted on special occasions in crossing duty and as a "shadow."

FORMER LOCAL WOMAN IS HELD

Mrs. J. R. Hare Accused in Twin City Shoplifting

Mrs. J. R. Hare, formerly of Bismarck, is under arrest in St. Paul, charged with having participated in a shoplifting scheme in which booty was taken from nine Twin City department stores, according to the St. Paul Dispatch. Valuable silks, furs and wearing apparel worth $5,000 were found at 3340 Cedar avenue, Minneapolis, the address given by Mr. and Mrs. Roy Dever who were arrested Wednesday, the account states. Mrs. Bessie Lesman, who gave her address as 2627 Cedar avenue, Minneapolis, also was arrested as a member of the alleged gang.

The arrest was made when police noticed big black bags carried by the women bulged suspiciously. Detective say they saw the contents of the bags stuffed under an automobile seat, and the bags again filled with merchandise.

They gave their names as Mrs. Bessie Dever, 42 years old and Roy Dever, 43 years old, her husband. The second woman gave her name as Mrs. Bessie Lesman, 25 alias Mrs. J. R. Hare alias Violet Hare,

DISABLED VETS HEADOUTLINES PLANS OF AID

ORPHANAGE PLANNED

Capt. C. Hamilton Cook, national commander of the Disabled Veterans of the World War, was the principle speaker at a banquet Saturday evening at the Grand Pacific Hotel given by the local chapter of Disabled Veterans. Representatives of the War Mothers, the Red Cross, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary and other representative citizens of Bismarck, including 10 members of the local chapter of disabled men were present, and heard Captain Cook's message.

Captain Cook showed a thorough familiarity with the problem of the disabled soldier and his discussion was along the line of constructive criticism. He insisted that the promised care of those injured in the service must be carried out, and that the best care and treatment known to medical science is the least that can be done in the fulfillment of that promise. He insisted upon the completion of the present hospital plan with emergency speed and cited instances where with available funds there had been inexcusable delays in providing hospital facilities.

Orphanage Plan.
The establishment of orphanages for the children of ex-service men was another feature of the problem which he outlined as that for which the disabled veterans organization stands. Such orphans he said were entitled to the same consideration from the government as are Indian orphans. He also advocated that the veterans bureau should organize a chaplain corps to assist the disabled men in the government hospital. Chaplains, he pointed out could be of great help to the men when they receive their government compensation, who in many cases become the play of unscrupulous stock salesmen and other investment sharks. The whole system of vocational training as established by the government Bureau is unsatisfactory, said Captain Cook. First because the government failed to recognize the necessity of putting trainees into recognized educational institutions and sent a very large percent of the trainees to mushroom institutions which sprang up for the sole purpose of making money out of the vocational training law. Secondly, because in many instances no recognition of the disabled trainees previous education was taken into consideration, nor of his adaptability to the trade for which he was given training and in many, many instances the desires of the trainees though reasonable were ignored and trainees were forced into training for trades for which they neither had any aptitude or inclination. Thirdly, because the training period allowed by the government was almost universally too short and was shorter than the time recognized as necessary by trade unions and recognized employers.

Urges Training.
Captain Cook stated that the veterans bureau should give placements of government so that at the end of the three or six months period the trainees can take qualified examinations for civil service appointments. At present he stated the government's own trainees because of the inadequacy of the training period are not allowed to take examinations for government positions in the various departments.

Captain Cook stated that the disabled veterans would in the immediate future ask President Harding to make an extensive order to make it possible for training in the departments of government looking forward to the possibility of taking examination for permanent positions with the government.

He said high tribute to the other patriotic and veterans organizations and stated that Commander Owsley of the American Legion worked with him shoulder to shoulder in the interest of the disabled men.

Captain Cook made a fine impression on all who heard him. Much making was noticeably about in his remarks and he displayed an earnest desire to cooperate with the government in solving the many difficult problems growing out of the war. He is now on a tour which will take him into nearly every state of the union.

Pretty Wedding Occurs Easter at Martin Home

A charming wedding of the Easter season was held at the home of Mrs. J. C. Martin of Hackettstown, N. J., and Harry A. Jones which took place at the home of the bride's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. Martin of 116 W. Rosser Street yesterday afternoon. Rev. Harry C. Postlethwaite read the marriage service in the presence of members of the family and a few intimate friends at 2:30 o'clock.

Just before the vows were taken, Miss Emma Pearce sang "Oh Promise Me" with her sister Miss Lois Pearce accompanying her on the piano. The young couple were attended by Mr. and Mrs. Chas. F. Martin. The bride wore a gown of flat crepe in the shade of Bobolink tan and carried a bouquet of Killarney roses and lilies-of-the-valley, and the matron-of-honor was dressed in a tomato red canton crepe and carried a spray of carnations and lily ferns.

At 3:00 o'clock a three course luncheon was served. Mrs. Jones is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Martin of Hackettstown, N. J. The bride was born and educated in Plainfield, N. J., and graduated from the Plainfield high school. The past six months she has been employed in the motor vehicle department in this city.

5-MINUTE BREAKFASTS

There's now a Quick Quaker Oats. It cooks to perfection in 5 to 5 minutes. No other oats can compare for quick cooking.

Same flavor, same quality as regular Quaker Oats. This brand is always flaked from the finest grains only. But in Quick Quaker the oats are cut before flaking. They are rolled very thin and partly cooked. So the flakes are smaller and thinner—that is all. And those small, thin flakes cook quickly.

Your grocer has both styles—Quick Quaker and regular. Tell him which style you prefer.

Fancier a Wrap's Fabric, Simpler Is Its Trimming

Coats, like dresses and suits, are using two materials, to get more elaborate effects.

Brocade or matelasse fabrics serve for the blouse top of the wrap with a soft, thick material for the bottom.

The more elaborate the fabric, the simpler the trimming. Such wraps as these usually are unornamented except by rows of stitching.

Simpler coats and wraps are made of willow, fashion, velvet and satin canton-trimmed with ermine, monkey, stitching or embroidery, and lined with silk crepes, printed or plain.

Of course top coats are made of heavy materials in camelhair or large plaids, unlined.

LETTER FROM SYDNEY CARTON TO JOHN ALDEN PRESCOTT

Nothing doing, old man; at least, nothing doing up to date as far as the letters are concerned.

I could see that it would do no good even to mention them when I took Mademoiselle out to dinner the other night. She seemed to have forgotten there was such a thing as a love letter in all the world.

We talked you over pretty thoroughly.

The lady acknowledged she wished you well; had nothing against you; that for at least a year you had given her a very beautiful time and she hoped that your wife was worthy of you.

Don't sneer, I think she meant it. She is a very clever girl, Jack. I almost succeeded to her charms myself.

Her conversation, which is a mixture of English when she tries to be calm and French when her emotions become impulsive, is most fascinating.

Honestly, I do not think Paula Perier will give up those letters. However, I should not worry much about them for if she remains in this frame of mind she will never make you any trouble.

She may use them as a lever to pry you away from your wife occasionally, but the time may come when you will want a good excuse. Of course I understand your predicament, old chap. It isn't particularly pleasant, and I am sure you are wishing a thousand times that there were no letters of your floating around to be brought up against you.

I will stay here for a couple of days longer. Mademoiselle and I are going on a long motor ride this afternoon and dine at some quiet inn. Perhaps the Fates will be propitious. If so, I will bring your series manager, declared that the play which is being given here is "par-excellence."

PNEUMONIA IS FATAL TO MRS. J. HANSEN

Well Known Young Matron of City Passes Away in Local Hospital

Mrs. Hulda Hansen, wife of J. M. Hansen of 415 Eighth street, passed away at a local hospital this morning at 7 o'clock, after a short illness due to pneumonia. She was 35 years old.

Mrs. Hansen, who formerly taught school in Bismarck, was taken ill Tuesday with an acute attack of pneumonia. She was well known among the young matrons of the city, being an active member of the Mothers' Social Club. Mr. and Mrs. Hansen came to Bismarck in 1918 from Jamestown, and Mr. Hansen was formerly city engineer in Jamestown. He came here as assistant state engineer, and was in charge of surplus war equipment.

The deceased is survived by five children, Jacqueline, Alton, Miran, John, and an infant son three days old, and a niece, Idella Olson, who has been making her home with the Hansen's for a number of years.

Mrs. J. Nelson of Tracy, Minn., a sister of Mrs. Hansen, arrived Sunday, and Mrs. Carolyn Hansen of Spokane, Wash., mother of Mr. Hansen is expected to arrive soon.

Mr. Hansen resigned from the highway commission staff to become associated with the Northern Construction company of Grand Forks. His family remained here this winter.

Funeral services will be at the Perry Undertaking parlors Thursday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Interment will take place in a local cemetery.

RESIDENT OF CITY FOR 33 YEARS PASSES

Chris Bertsch, Sr., Pioneer of Bismarck, Succumbs at Age of 73

Chris Bertsch, Sr., who has resided in Bismarck for the past thirty-three years, passed away at a local hospital Sunday afternoon at 12:45 as a result of a gradual decline due to his advanced age. He was 73 years old.

Mr. Bertsch and his family migrated from Russian to Eureka, S. D., thirty-four years ago. After spending a year there they moved to Bismarck. Several years after coming here Mr. Bertsch opened a blacksmith shop on Eighth street which he ran for fifteen years. In 1903 he and his son, Chris Bertsch, Jr., opened an implement store in connection with the shop. Mr. Bertsch retired from a blacksmith life in 1912 and was making his home with his son, Andrew Bertsch, on Fourth street at the time of his death.

He is survived by his wife, two sons, Chris Bertsch head of the Bismarck Motor company, and Andrew Bertsch a draftsman, Mrs. John Reinhardt of Temvik.

A short funeral service will be held from the home of Chris Bertsch on 602 Sixth street Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, followed by another at the German Baptist church at 3 o'clock with Rev. A. Guenther in charge.

AT THE MOVIES

THE ELTINGE

Lewis Stone, one of the best known stage and screen actors in the profession, has been engaged as a regular member of the Paramount-Stock Company and will play leads in "Special Paramount features."

His first appearance under the new arrangement is as leading man in William de Mille's production, "The World's Applause," in which he is featured opposite Lieve Daniels, who plays the feminine lead—probably the strongest role of her career. The picture will be shown at the Eltinge Theatre Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Mr. Stone has to his credit excellent roles in such pictures as "The River's End," "Millstones," "Held by the Enemy" (a Paramount picture), and many others.

The supporting company is an excellent one in every respect, the players—including Kathlyn Williams, one of the best known women of the screen; Adolphe Menjou, a popular screen favorite; Maym Kelso, Brandon Hurst, Bernice Baskin and James Neill.

Buster Keaton also appears in the program and will produce the laughs as a mechanic in his comedy, "The Blacksmith."

GRIMSON GOES TO FLORIDA IN TABERT CASE

An indictment of Walter Higginbotham, boss of the camp in which Tabert was confined, is now in custody will be asked.

Realize what Kellogg's Bran means to your family's health?

Eaten regularly each day, Kellogg's Bran will permanently relieve constipation; it will free you from dangerous toxic poisons that lead to 90% of all human illness; it will remove the cause and sweeten a bad breath; it will clear a pimply complexion through its work on the bowels. In fact, Kellogg's Bran, through its natural action as a bulk, indigestible agent, will tone-up the whole system!

If you know exactly what constipation means from a medical viewpoint you would lose no time eating Kellogg's Bran yourself and serving it daily to your family. And, Kellogg's is actually delicious. Its nut-like flavor adds greatly to the enjoyment of eating cereals. Eat at least two table-spoonsful each day; in chronic cases, with each meal.

There are many attractive ways to serve Kellogg's Bran. Eat it in winter with a bit of milk as a cereal. Or, mix it with cereals before serving. Many housewives cook it with cereals, in each case adding two tablespoonsful for each person. You will also enjoy the nut-like flavor of Kellogg's Bran when it has been sprinkled over hot or cold cereals.

You have missed some of the joys of life if you have not eaten raisin bread, muffins, griddle-cakes, etc., made with Kellogg's Bran. Recipes are printed on each box.

Don't delay your fight against constipation; don't lose a minute in the great battle against illness! You can buy Kellogg's Bran from all grocers and you can have it served in individual packages at first-class hotels, restaurants and clubs.

Eat More Wheat

That is what we are doing. We also use pure wheat starch in all our collar work. It gives a better finish and makes collars, etc., more pliable than any other starch made. Of course it costs more than other starch, but it is the BEST for the best kind of collar work.

THE STATE'S OLDEST NEWSPAPER
(Established 1873)

NAPOLEON'S END

New revelations about the last days of Napoleon are published in a book written by his second valet, Louis Etienne St. Denis.

Historians have been perpetuating the old story that Nap's last words were: "France *** army *** head of the army *** Josephine."

That sounds a little too theatrical to be true, more like what would be said by a stage Napoleon than the real Napoleon.

St. Denis, in his personal recollections, wrote nothing about these alleged last words. According to his story, Napoleon in his last moments was chiefly concerned with getting wine.

The valet recorded it this way: "He would ask for a little wine from time to time, which they hastened to give him. He said after drinking a few drops, 'Ah, how good wine is! How good wine is!'"

That sounds more human. And Napoleon was childishly human.

As death drew near, while rats scurried to and fro in the rambling corridors: "He would cough so loud that he could be heard all over the house. The emperor died without the slightest perceptible convulsion and without the least stiffening. He went out as the light of a lamp goes out."

Is that light now burning elsewhere?

Napoleon, vain to the point of egomania, was constantly on the watch for anything that he could interpret as a slight, St. Denis wrote.

"He was absolutely like a child."

He knew that he caught cold easily, yet he never hurried to shelter when caught in the rain while out walking.

In reading, if he liked a book he replaced it carefully on the library shelves. If the book bored him, he showed lively displeasure, often throwing the volume into the fire.

In his last days, he wore his clothes until they were shabby, then had the tailor "turn" them.

He never used gloves, except occasionally on horseback.

"The emperor never wore any jewelry except a watch," runs the valet's record. Probably this was due to fear that jewelry might detract from attention that he wanted exclusively for his person.

Napoleon was an abnormal creature. His career reflected the rise and fall of his diseased pituitary gland.

He was a genius at leadership and organization. But personally he was a type that few of us would invite to call again, judging from his valet's book. So much for one of the 25 most powerful personalities that ever lived.

CANADA AND PAN-AMERICA

John Barrett, former director-general of the Pan-American Union, finds that in the present congress at Santiago, Chile, the one subject of most popular appeal in all the countries concerned is the proposed membership of Canada.

Obviously it will never be an All-American Union until Canada is in. If there ever was any good reason for that country remaining outside, it has been swept away by the recent concession of the British government giving Canada the right to make treaties independently of the mother country.

The Dominion, though still a part of the large, loose fabric called the British Empire, is a self-governing nation, free to act with England or not as it pleases, and in essentials as American as any other democracy in this hemisphere. There are many of our own people who insist that Canada today embodies, more than the United States does, the genuine Americanism of older generations, before the great influx of immigrants from eastern and southern Europe.

Canadians are said to be friendly to the big Union, and the Union is frankly friendly to Canada. A formal invitation to join is expected from the present congress. The American representatives may be expected to give cordial support to such an invitation. It would be an honor to have Canada in this promising New World association, whose usefulness is just beginning, and it would be pleasant for the United States to have an Anglo-Saxon associate in a group otherwise made up entirely of Latins.

HAULING

How would you like to make your living hauling stuff at a price of a cent and a fifth a mile for each ton? For instance, to haul five tons of coal or furniture for six cents a mile.

That's what the railroads did last year. They received an average of less than a cent and a fifth a mile for carrying the average ton of freight. The rate may be too high, at that. But it shows a tremendous economy, compared with the cost of most of the other things we do in civilization. Big volume of business is the reason.

BLIZZARD

More than 10 feet of snow fell this winter in Portland, Me. To equal that, the weatherman has to go back 50 years.

Weather runs in cycles, like nearly everything else. Cutting down the forests may have lessened snowfall in some districts. It may also have affected rainfall. But strike an average temperature over periods of 10 years each, and the climate has not changed since the first records were kept more than a century ago. Some old settlers believe otherwise. But the terrific winters they tell about will repeat in future years when the cycle finishes its revolution.

That World Court may get along all right as long as it doesn't start handing down five-to-four verdicts.

The American people might make more governmental progress if they didn't spend half their time electing presidents.

$16,500,000 Cost of a Modern Battleship

London, April 2.—The cost of building a first-class battleship in 1914 was approximately 5,000,000 pounds sterling, or about $2,500,000, but the cost of a similar ship today is about 3,500,000 pounds, or about $16,500,000, according to Commander Eyles-Monell, parliamentary secretary to the admiralty.

Explaining this increase the expert says: "It must be borne in mind, however, that a modern capital ship embodies features found necessary in the light of war experience which involve a considerably greater tonnage, offensive and defensive armament, and consequently cost."

RIGHT ON THE JOB B'GOSH!

MICHAEL'S WEDDING GIFT
BY E. PHILLIPS OPPENHEIM
Copyright, 1922, by E. Phillips Oppenheim
Arrgt. NEA Service, Inc.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

Vendetta begins between MICHAEL SAYERS, noted criminal, and SIR NORMAN GREYES, once of Scotland Yard, when Sayers' beautiful housemaid, JANET, saves him from Sir Norman by snatching dead an officer sent to arrest him. Janet becomes Sayers' wife and accomplice. After many narrow escapes from capture, Michael goes to live with two woodsmen, Pierre and Jacques. Led by Michael, the three scheme to rob passing motorists. By blocking a bend in the road with a lumber wagon tourists are made to run down an embankment and in the confusion of rescue the watching lumbermen rob the injured of their purses. One day Michael goes to the rescue of a beautiful girl and her father, whose car runs wild.

NOW GO ON WITH STORY

MICHAEL SAYERS CONTINUES: "You were just in time," she said. "That was a wonderful jump." The old gentleman was in the road by this time and, gripping my hand, "My good fellow," he exclaimed, "you have done a great day's work for yourself! For God's sake, say that you understand English." "I have hewn wood in Devonshire," I told him. "I speak English or French, which you will."

"My name," he announced, "is Lork Kinsley. You will never regret this day's work."

I made some attempt to descend, but he held me in my place. "You must drive us to the next town," he insisted. "To Hyeres or Toulon. I will reward you handsomely, but we cannot be left here, and I will not let that wretched youth touch the car again."

"Where are you going to?" I inquired. "English," the girl answered, "to Boulogne."

"I will drive you to Boulogne," I said, "if you will give me that young man's livery and papers, and recompense my comrades there for my absence. They will have to engage another woodman."

"It is agreed," he declared eagerly. "We shall not quarrel about terms. I promise you!"

During the whole of our four-day journey, the girl, who sat by my side all the time, remained as though wrapped in her thoughts and spoke to me only after long intervals.

"How is it that you, a woodman, can drive a motorcar?" was her first question.

"I have not always been a woodman," I answered.

"Why did you want that boy's papers?" she asked.

"Because I wished to reach England, and I might find it difficult to get a passport of my own," I admitted.

replied. "She has not even applied for a penny."

I knew the truth then, of course. Louis was never one to break a rival. I felt a momentary compunction when I thought of Janet's terror in the cafe at Marseilles. After all, although we had ceased to care for one another, she had been faithful to me after her fashion.

"We heard that you were drowned at Marseilles," my companion remarked.

"It was a narrow escape," I admitted. "Rimington and Greyes were both over there, and they got on my track through Janet and Louis. I had luck that night—and I needed it."

"You don't you retire?" the lawyer suggested, leaning across the table. "You have sufficient money, and you are fond of the country. Why not make full use of your wonderful genius for disguise, choose some quiet spot and run no more risks?"

"The matter is worth considering," I admitted. "There are a few little affairs to straighten out first, though."

Mr. Younghusband looked at me curiously; then he laid his forefinger upon the copy of the Times which he had been studying when I entered the office.

"You are interested in tomorrow's event, I suppose?"

"What event?" I inquired.

The lawyer shrugged his shoulders. I could see quite well that he did not believe in my ignorance.

"The marriage of your old friend Norman Greyes."

I stared across the table incredulously.

"I have, indeed, been living out of the world," I observed. "Whom is he marrying?"

"D you mean to tell me that you do not know?" he demanded.

"Of course I do not," I replied. A little irritably. "You seem to forget where I have been for the last four months."

"Norman Greyes is marrying the lady whom I have met as Mrs. Standfield. She calls herself now Janet Soale."

That was, undoubtedly one of the shocks of my life. I held out my hand for the Times and read the little announcement.

"Good!" I said. "I shall attend the reception which I see is being given after the ceremony. It will be interesting to see Norman Greyes' taste in pearls. I see that he is having his 'collected' structure as a wedding present for his wife."

"If you do, you're a madman," the lawyer declared angrily.

"Madmen for luck!" I replied.

JANET TAKES UP THE STORY

It was exactly two months after I had left Marseilles when Norman Greyes walked into my little sitting-room in Smith Street, Westminster, where I was busy typing a play for the agency which occasionally sent me work. Before I had got over my surprise at his coming, I felt his arms around me—and every atom of strength was leaving my body. The most wonderful moment of my life had arrived!

"When will you marry me, Janet?" he asked a little later on, when he had set me back in my chair and seated himself by my side.

"Marry you? I gasped. "How can you talk of such things?"

"Simply because they have to be talked about before they can be undertaken," he replied. "I look upon you as Michael's widow, but you have never cared for him as you are going to care for me."

Open Citizenship Classes at Pen

Last evening at the state penitentiary, with Miss Madeleine, county superintendent, in charge. She will conduct classes in civics and citizenship every Tuesday and Friday evening at the penitentiary.

After only four days of instruction in writing and familiarity with the letters of the alphabet, one of the inmates of the state penitentiary has arrived at the point where he was able to write a short letter to his patroness, Mrs. Alfred Zuger, in a very legible hand.

J. L. Cahill, director of the school, declared that the accomplishment was very unusual.

Mrs. Zuger expects to place this letter in her exhibit which she will use at the eight district meetings of the Federation of Women's clubs which will be held here in May.

The night school in Hilderay at the penitentiary was organized a year ago last November by Mrs. Cora Wilson Stewart, originator of the Kentucky Moonlight schools, and Mrs. Alfred Zuger.

Something of the value of the training received by the illiterates who enter the institution is indicated by the fact that one man who had been earning only $30 or $35 a month when he entered the place obtained position at $135 a month at a Standard Oil station in North Dakota a short time ago when he was discharged as a result of the fact that he had learned to read and write.

Wolves Haunt Dreary Plains of Tartar Land

Kazan, April 2.—The wolves have come back to the steppes. In the cold winter nights on the wind-swept plains of the Tartar Republic, the nomadic tribes report, more wolves have been seen this year than for decades past. They have grown so bold that they howl at the very doors of the dug-outs or mud houses that the wandering Tchuvash and Bashkir people inhabit in the winter in place of their summer tents.

In the Tartar Republic, the Tchuvash and Bashkir territories, more than 40,000 head of cattle have already been destroyed by the wolves this winter. This destruction among live stock, already depleted by the famine, is so serious that the government has launched a campaign throughout the province to kill the wolves. Huge hunts are being organized. The population has very few rifles, and little or no ammunition on hand, therefore it is considered probable that soldiers of the Red Army will be used in a wolf drive.

ADVENTURE OF THE TWINS

By Olive Barton Roberts

The next person the Twins met in Sugar-Plum Land was a black hen with a red flannel comb, glass bead eyes and nasty hard feet. Her feathers were real, however, and as black as coal.

"How d'ye do?" said Nancy. "What's your name?"

"Higgledy Piggledy"—what else? answered the black hen. "I lay eggs for gentlemen just as the rhyme says. Also I lay sometimes nine and sometimes ten, and sometimes a hundred which no live hen would ever think of doing."

"Then how does it happen that you can't?" asked Nick.

"Higgledy Piggledy"—what else? answered the black hen. "I lay eggs for gentlemen just as the rhyme says. Also I lay sometimes nine and sometimes ten, and sometimes a hundred which no live hen would ever think of doing."

JULY DELIVERY
REACHES HIGH
POINT ON MART

Unfavorable Weather Reports
Cause a Sharp Advance
in Wheat Price

Chicago, April 2.—General buying due chiefly to unfavorable crop reports from Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois resulted in an advance today to the season's highest prices for July and September deliveries of wheat. High winds and dust storms were among the adverse conditions reported from some sections. A forecast of unsettled weather, indicating possible rain led, however, to considerable selling and brought about a reaction. The opening, which ranged from one-eighths to one-half cent higher with May, $1.21 to $1.21½ and July, $1.17½ to $1.18, was followed by slight further gains and then a moderate downturn.

STATE BRAND FOR SPUDS IS PLAN ADVANCED

Several Local Marketing Associations Are Backing Idea

Fargo, N. D., April 2.—Preliminary to the development of a state wide potato marketing system through which potatoes bearing a distinctive North Dakota brand will be advertised and sold for table stock and seed purposes, meetings are being held in more than a score of communities in the state at which proposed plans of the North Dakota Potato Growers' Exchange are being discussed.

Four district meetings of county agents, under the direction of George P. Wolf, and Dr. A. H. Benton, North Dakota Agricultural college are being held this week and next as follows: Jamestown, March 29; Mandan 30 and 31; Devils Lake, April 5 and 6; Minot April 7.

Meetings of 13 local potato marketing associations, which have potato warehouses, have been held recently at which the idea of affiliation with the state exchanges has been discussed, according to Dr. Benton. The purpose of the meetings has also been to assist potato growers who have no warehouses in plans for organizing local marketing organizations. Contracts are based on the idea of pledging the supply of the grower to his local organization. The state exchange is not planned as a sales agency, however, and local associations will continue to use the established trade channels. The North Dakota Potato Growers' Exchange will adopt grading and marketing standards, and will help local associations to keep the North Dakota brand up to these standards.

MRS. RYCKMAN GAINS 35 LBS.

Declares Tanlac Restored Her Fully When Flu Had Almost Wrecked Her Health.

"I feel duty-bound to tell others about Tanlac for it built me up thirty-five pounds and gave me splendid health just when I was on the verge of a breakdown," was the emphatic statement of Mrs. Ada Ryckman, 1949 Conway St., St. Paul, Minn.

"I nearly died from the flu followed by an attack of pneumonia and was terrible run-down after the crisis. My stomach was so badly upset even a light meal caused me pain and distress from gas and awful spells of heartburn. I had sudden attacks of dizziness, pains in my head, couldn't get a good night's sleep and was so nervous and weak I was unable to do my house work."

"But those dark days when I thought I would never be well again, are gone now, and health, strength and happiness have taken their place. Tanlac is my household treasure and I'll never forget to say a good word for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

change will adopt grading and marketing standards, and will help local associations to keep the North Dakota brand up to these standards.

"The idea of marketing by associations and under a state brand, is being very favorably received in the state," said Dr. Benton before leaving to attend the district meeting.

Stephenson, .350 Batter, Is Without Regular Job — An Unusual Case

By Billy Evans

Lakeland, Fla., April 2.—A man without a job.

There you have the baseball status of Riggs Stephenson, one of the greatest right-hand batters in the major leagues.

Stephenson is one of those right-handed batters who takes a healthy cut at the ball, a la Rogers Hornsby or Harry Heilmann.

The former college man is a player capable of hitting better than .300, probably close to .350 if used as a regular. There's the rub.

Stephenson is a man without a job, although Manager Speaker of the Indians is busily engaged in trying to find a title that will fit him.

Stephenson came direct to the Indians from University of Alabama. A few years back when an injury to Bill Wambegans kept him from starting the season Speaker surprised the baseball world by announcing the unknown college recruit as his second sacker. Right well did he fill the bill. His great hitting featured his early play of the Indians.

In a desire to work Stephenson into the regular lineup, Speaker has used the youngster a second, short, third and in the outfield. Some slight fault crops out that keeps him from winning a regular berth. Speaker hasn't lost faith, neither has Stephenson. Eddie Collins didn't arrive overnight.

The tough part of it is, that a batsman capable of whaling the ball to the extent of a .350 average as a regular is viewing the games from the bench.

"For the present I guess the best title I can bestow on 'Stevie' is utility infielder," says Speaker. "Old Hoss can play any of the infield positions, and play them well, do a turn in the outfield and how he can murder the ball. He should be a great help to me this year regardless of what his title is."

In some ways Stephenson's case is similar to that of Dode Criss, who, back 15 years ago, was, with the St. Louis Browns. Criss sure could hit the ball. He came to the Browns as a pitcher, but was used at first and in the outfield to make use of his hitting, but he never won a berth in the regular lineup.

Yet he won many a ball game for the Browns with his ability to hit 'em where they ain't.

Loud Sweater Is Too Much For Walker

Cyril Walker is one of the best golfers in the country, and incidentally he is the slowest.

Jack Hutchison said from being one of the cracks has by far the keenest sense of humor.

A year ago when Hutchison returned from England after competing in the British open, he brought back with him a flock of sweaters that were so loud they fairly shouted.

One of the sweaters was a black and white check about an inch square. It so happened that the day Hutchison was to follow Walker in a big tournament he wore this sweater.

As the two were waiting to tee off, Walker, intending to josh Hutchison about the loud sweater, remarked:

"Jock, it looks as if you intended to play checkers instead of golf from the appearance of this sweater."

"That's just what I decided when I learned I was going to play back of you. I knew I would have plenty of time, so I donned this sweater to fill in with checkers between shots."

That silenced Walker.

CALL JENSEN TO EL PASO

Local Wrestler Will go With Speedy Jap Middleweight

Thor Jensen, Bismarck wrestler, is working out daily in the Bismarck Business Men's gymnasium in the basement of the City National bank building, preparatory for a match he expects on April 19 at El Paso, Texas with Matty Matsuda, a Jap wrestler who ranks among the best of the middleweights. Jensen accepted terms for the match.

The local man returned here after winning three victories in a row in Minnesota and Wisconsin, during which he met some tough customers. He defeated the veteran Henry Karhunsari, one of the best in the business, at Winona, Minn., March 20. Karhunsari got the first fall with a reversed wrist lock in 24 minutes, Jensen got the second in 35 minutes and 15 seconds and the third in 8 minutes, both with toe holds. A Winona newspaper said:

"Jensen was on the aggressive most of the evening, especially after the loss of the first fall, which appeared to spur him to exert every ounce of strength. He employed an amazing variety of holds in his attempt to pin his foe to the mat."

At LaCrosse, Wis., the night previous Jensen beat George Brandau, of Wilton, Wis., who claims the championship of that state, winning two out of three falls, and he beat another opponent at Biscay, Minn., winning three matches in four days.

Gus Kallio, welterweight champion wrestler of the world, was at the Winona match. Jensen challenged him.

Baby Talk Condemned
By Kindergarten Expert

Chicago, April 2.—Baby talk, defined as "an expression of self-vilifying with parenthood," is condemned as a dangerous and ludicrous practice by Miss Marion Lanhier, Ph. and "wittle wambkins" and kindred terms of parental endearment, Miss Lanhier points out that only six out of every ten children escape detrimental impressions "from the absurd language of their parents' affections."

REPORT OF TAX REDUCTION COMMITTEE

This Committee is only interested in Candidates so far as the matter affects taxation. The main thing is to get relief from taxation that is now unbearable.

We believe all four of the Candidates for City Commissioner are of good personal character.

But we believe Mr. French and Mr. Larson have been too busy with their own store and lumber yard to pay much attention to what their attorneys and surveyors have been doing.

They have been making promises of cheaper water before every election; but after election they do nothing and the water is higher and the taxes are higher too.

The way to make hired help and officials keep their promises is to fire them when they do not make good.

When the city attorney's partner takes cases against the city the attorney should be fired at once. The suit where the partners were on both sides cost the tax payers a lot of money.

Mr. Murphy and Mr. Hinckley are good business men but they have practically retired and have plenty of time to take care of the city's business themselves. We believe they will take pride in the work. They promise to cut out a lot of waste and make taxes much lower.

We believe the voters should give them a trial.

A Final Warning

If you fail to elect FRENCH AND LARSON tomorrow and elect the Candidates backed by The Bismarck Water Supply Company one of the following two things are certain to happen.

First—The Bismarck Water Supply Company will continue to supply the city with the same sort of service, high prices, inadequate fire protection and poor quality of water that they are now doing and have done in the past. They will still refuse to put in supply mains in those parts of the city which are entitled to them as they now are and have done in the past.

Second—Sell to the city the present water system at a cost to the city and taxpayers at a price several hundred thousand dollars more than the plant is worth to the city, and thereby enrich themselves and beat the taxpayers out of huge sums of money.

You cannot afford to let either of these things happen.

Whose interests are the Water Company looking after? Your interests or their own?

Will candidates elected through the efforts of the Water Company look after your interests or the interests of the corporation which is seeking to elect them?

Remember that the stockholders and officers of the Water Company are trying to defeat French and Larson.

The Only Safe Way to protect your pocket book and get a water plant owned by the city which will give you what you want is by Voting for French and Larson.

The Present and Past Situation in Bismarck is the biggest load on the neck of progress that this city has to contend with. Throw it off by voting for French and Larson.

Lets Finish the Job Tomorrow.

French and Larson

are pledged to the settlement of the problem in a prompt business like manner, without paying to the Water Company huge sums of money as tribute. They will do this without hanging on your neck the payment of big sums above the value of the present water plant.

Beware of Misstatements and Part Truths and Side Issues Without Merit.

These are being used by the opposition for the purpose of getting you to lose sight of the main issue.

Vote Tomorrow for French and Larson, Prosperity, A Square Deal, And a City Owned Water Plant.

STATE BRAND FOR SPUDS IS PLAN ADVANCED

Several Local Marketing Associations Are Backing Idea

Fargo, N. D., April 2.—Preliminary to the development of a state wide potato marketing system through which potatoes bearing a distinctive North Dakota brand will be advertised and sold for table stock and seed purposes, meetings are being held in more than a score of communities in the state at which proposed plans of the North Dakota Potato Growers' Exchange are being discussed.

Four district meetings of county agents, under the direction of George P. Wolf, and Dr. A. H. Benton, North Dakota Agricultural college are being held this week and at as follows: Jamestown, March 29; Mandan 30 and 31; Devils Lake, April 5 and 6; Minot April 7.

Meetings of 13 local potato marketing associations, which have potato warehouses, have been held recently at which the idea of affiliation with the state exchange has been discussed, according to Dr. Benton. The purpose of the meetings has also been to assist potato growers who have no warehouses in plans for organizing local marketing organizations. Contracts are based on the idea of pledging the supply of the grower to the local organization. The state exchange is not planned as a sales agency, however, and local associations will continue to use the established trade channels. The North Dakota Potato Growers' Exchange will adopt grading and marketing standards, and will help local associations to keep the North Dakota brand up to these standards.

"The idea of marketing by associations and under a state brand, is being very favorably received in the state," said Dr. Benton before leaving to attend the district meeting.

Famous stage beauties use this harmless lemon cream to bring that velvety, clear, rosy-white complexion, also as a freckle, sunburn, and tan bleach because it doesn't irritate.

MRS. RYCKMAN GAINS 35 LBS.

Declares Tanlac Restored Her Fully When Flu Had Almost Wrecked Her Health.

"I feel duty-bound to tell others about Tanlac for it built me up thirty-five pounds, and gave me splendid health just when I was on the verge of a breakdown," was the emphatic statement of Mrs. Ada Ryckman, 1949 Conway St., St. Paul, Minn.

"I nearly died from the flu followed by an attack of pneumonia and was a terrible run-down after the crisis. My stomach was so badly upset even a light meal caused me pain and distress from gas and awful spells of dizziness, pain in my head, couldn't get a good night's sleep and was so nervous and weak I was unable to do my house work.

"But those dark days when I thought I would never be well again, are gone now, and health, strength and happiness have taken their place. Tanlac is my household treasure and I'll never forget to say a good word for it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37-million bottles sold.

change will adopt grading and marketing standards, and will help local associations to keep the North Dakota brand up to these standards.

"The idea of marketing by associations and under a state brand, is being very favorably received in the state," said Dr. Benton before leaving to attend the district meeting.

WITNESSES IN TRIAL CALLED

Pair to be Tried Soon For Murder of Child

Cando, N. D., April 2.—Witnesses in the trial of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Horn, charged with the murder of the one-year-old daughter of Miss Marie Reid, have been ordered to appear in district court here Tuesday, and it is expected that the selection of a jury to try the case will be commenced Wednesday.

Miss Reid, who is a destitute, left the child at the Horn home on the night of January 14 last. The next morning it was found dead in its cradle, and a coroner's jury returned a verdict of death by violence. Arrest of the Horns, followed.

Stephenson, 350 Batter, Is Without Regular Job — An Unusual Case

By Billy Evans
Lakeland, Fla., April 2 — A man without a job.

There you have the baseball status of Riggs Stephenson, one of the greatest right-hand batters in the major leagues.

Stephenson is one of those right-handed batters who takes a healthy cut at the ball, a la Rogers Hornsby or Harry Hellmann.

The former collegian is a player capable of hitting better than .300, probably close to .350 if used as a regular. There's the rub.

Stephenson is a man without a job, although Manager Speaker of the Indians is busily engaged in trying to find a title that will fit him.

Stephenson came direct to the Indians from University of Alabama. A few years back when an injury to Bill Wambegans kept him from starting the season Speaker surprised the baseball world by announcing the unknown college recruit as his second sacker. Right well did he fill the bill. His great hitting featured his early play of the Indians.

In a desire to work Stephenson into the regular lineup, Speaker has used the youngster a second, short, third and in the outfield. Some slight fault crop out that keeps him from winning a regular berth. Speaker hasn't lost faith, neither has Stephenson. Eddie Collins didn't arrive overnight.

The tough part of it is, that a batsman capable of whaling the ball to the extent of a .350 average as a regular is viewing the games from the bench.

"For the present I guess the best title I can bestow on 'Stevie' is utility infielder," says Speaker. "Ola Ross can play any of the infield positions, and play them well, do a turn in the outfield and how he can murder the ball. He should be a great help to me this year regardless of what his title is."

In some ways Stephenson's case is similar to that of Dode Criss, who, back 16 years ago, was with the St. Louis Browns. Criss sure could hit the ball. He came to the Browns as a pitcher, but was used at first and in the outfield to make use of his hitting, but he never won a berth in the regular lineup.

Yet he won many a ball game for the Browns with his ability to hit 'em where they ain't.

"That's just what I decided when I learned I was going to play back of you. I knew I would have plenty of time, so I donned this sweater to fill in with checkers between shots."

That silenced Walker.

CALL JENSEN TO EL PASO

Local Wrestler Will go With Speedy Jap Middleweight

Thor Jensen, Bismarck wrestler, is working out daily in the Bismarck Business Men's gymnasium in the basement of the City National bank building, preparatory for a match he expects on April 19 at El Paso, Texas with Matty Matsuda, a Jap wrestler who ranks among the best of the middleweights. Jensen accepted terms for the match.

The local man returned here after winning three victories in a row in Minnesota and Wisconsin, during which he met some tough customers. He defeated the veteran Henry Karhunsari, one of the best in the business, at Winona, Minn., March 20. Karhunsari got the first fall with a reversed wrist lock in 24 minutes. JULY DELIVERY
REACHES HIGH
POINT ON MART

Unfavorable Weather Reports
Cause a Sharp Advance
in Wheat Price

Chicago, April 2.—General buying due chiefly to unfavorable crop reports from Kansas, Nebraska and Illinois resulted in an advance today to the season's highest prices for July and September deliveries of wheat. High winds and dust storms were among the adverse conditions reported from some sections. A forecast of unsettled weather, indicating possible rain, led, however, to considerable selling and brought about a reaction. The opening, which ranged from one-eighth to one-half cent higher with May, $1.21 to $1.22 1/4, and July, $1.17 1/4 to $1.18, was followed by slight further gains and then a moderate downturn.

Make Your Ballots Tomorrow Reduce City Tax Burden

Put Solution of Water Problem Up to People at Special Election is Proposal of Murphy and Hinckley, Candidates for City Commissioners

More than $46,000 has been spent in the last four years in water litigation which has gone to fatten lawyers, and engineers. Four years of waste, inaction and camouflage. The Net results: THIRTY-FIVE PER CENT INCREASE IN THE WATER RATES and end not yet in sight as cases are still pending in federal courts.

TAX PAYERS OF BISMARCK! This sum alone would secure for the Capital City a fine recreation park or it could have been utilized as a first payment on the present water plant or for a fund to erect a new plant if such is deemed advisable. City annals chronicle no greater waste of public funds.

City Costs Mount High

Taxes Soar---Warrants Unpaid

Budgets for city purposes have been increasing rapidly since 1911—out of all proportion to the increase in population and assessed value of the city property. A few figures will suffice:

1911	$ 46,356.70
1912	54,959.00
1913	64,787.00
1914	58,222.41
1919 (French & Larson administration)
1919	101,180.00
1920	116,332.54
1921	106,890.00
1922	92,599.00

During first four years mentioned Mr. Hinckley was on the commission. After his retirement costs for city government began to soar gradually the next intervening years but the peak was reached during the four years from 1919-1922.

In order that the taxpayers may be able to meet the heavy assessments for special improvements it is imperative that the city budget be held down to the minimum so that the paving, sewer and other costs can be met without so many lapses in payment and virtual confiscation of property. Many lots have reverted to the city. There is in default on its payments now as follows:

Sewer Warrants.....$7,000 (year in default)

Paving Warrants.....$14,000 (year in default)

There are now registered city warrants in the amount of $50,000 more than a year in default upon which the taxpayers are paying SEVEN Per Cent interest. SALARY WARRANTS ALL PAID while others wait for their money in defiance of law and in detriment to the city's credit.

A. C. HINCKLEY

A. C. Hinkley has been a resident of Bismarck since 1880. He served as an alderman under the old aldermanic plan. Later under the commission form of government he was street commissioner giving the city one of the best and most economical administrations. The cleanliness of the city at that time was commented upon. If elected he will devote all his time to the job and take pride in keeping the streets up at a low cost.

He is a heavy taxpayer and will be vitally interested in getting value received for every public dollar spent.

When he was street commissioner there was no paving. He kept the streets up from 1912 to 1914 at a cost of $15,000 for the three years.

During the last three years with pavement in as against dirt streets in Mr. Hinkley administration, the present city commissioners have spent $28,253 or nearly $11,000 more.

Probably more startling is the fact that the total annual appropriations have increased from $54,959 in 1912 to as high as $116,320 in 1920 and $92,599 in 1922.

There is little justification for the terrific increase in the tax load.

In a recent statement Mr. Hinckley said: "In conclusion, I believe that the affairs of the City of Bismarck are of sufficient importance as to demand the entire time of the commissioners who may be chosen to administer its affairs. If I am honored by the public confidence next Tuesday I pledge myself to devote my whole time to the affairs of the city without any additional remuneration than the sum allowed at the present time."

Vote for Hinckley and Murphy to lower taxes to increase efficiency and to settle not only agitate and litigate the water question.

HOW CITY'S FUNDS ARE DISSIPATED

Not in Bismarck's fifty years as a corporation has there been such a useless waste of funds as disclosed in the four years of futile litigation to secure Bismarck a more adequate supply of water.

Steps were taken June 23, 1919, shortly after the inauguration of Larson and French to reduce water rates and down through the various years the matter has been pending and the costs pyramiding and the only net result to date is a thirty-five per cent increase in water rates allowed by the United States district court pending a final decision which may drag along for years to come.

There is not space here to discuss all the various cases started and lost by City Attorney O'Hare and his high priced assistants. Suffice it to say that two cases were started to reduce rates before the railroad commission; one case in the courts to condemn the water plant and still another to cancel the company's franchise. Every Case Mr. Voter WAS LOST AT YOUR EXPENSE AND WE ARE STILL DRINKING THE SAME WATER AT A HIGHER PRICE.

WHAT WE PLEDGE

THE WATER ISSUE

If elected we will submit as promptly as possible to the voters at a special election the matter of purchasing the present water plant or the building of a new one and a plan of financing such enterprises. We also pledge in event the people direct purchase of present plant to make such additions and improvements as will make the system adequate to all needs of this growing and enterprising city.

CITY ATTORNEY

Until recently the City Attorney has been paid $150 a month for attending four meetings of the city commission a month. Lately this has been cut to $100. If elected we will refuse to confirm the appointment of any city attorney who cannot handle important litigation without hiring additional counsel at a cost of nearly $4,000.

Neither will we vote for the confirmation of a city attorney whose law partner appears upon the opposite side in cases in which the city is a litigant and the tax payers interests are at stake.

CHIEF OF POLICE

As our opponents state in their platform they are for a cleaner and better city so are we but we will refuse to confirm the employment of any person on our police force who is not a citizen of Bismarck and whose character and integrity are questionable.

Records of the Chief of Police show that George Haneckeyk, former convict, and murderer of Ellen Albertson, was employed as special police in the city of Bismarck under the present administration with a knowledge of his criminal record. He had the approval of Chief Martineson and was used by him as a stool pigeon. We will never sanction the employment of such characters to protect the sanctity of the homes and to guard property of the citizens.

When he was placed on the city police force to guard the lives of women and children they knew how depraved he was and that he had lately finished a sentence for attempting to murder a young girl in Minot.

No mention is made here of another regular night policeman who left town hurriedly on his own initiative for the city's good.

It is high time to purge the police force and place it upon a higher moral plane.

CITY ENGINEER

One of the greatest leaks in taxes is the slovenly manner in employing the city engineer letting down the bars for excessive fees.

HERE IS THE BILL OF COST IN WATER LITIGATION AND INVESTIGATION.

Paid by the City and Charged to Tax payers Direct.

Attorney's Fees ....$ 3,810.62

Engineers and

Assistants ..... 4,044.31

Auditing ..... 750.00

Miscellaneous ..... 4,657.92

Total ..... $ 13,262.85

Paid by Water Company charged to water consumers in rates on order of railroad commission.

First Hearing .....$ 23,850.46

Second Hearing

to date ..... $8,390.10

Total ..... $ 32,240.56

Grand Total paid by taxpayers . $ 45,503.41

City costs for investigation lower than water company's as State of North Dakota furnished nearly all rate experts and engineers to make valuations—but a cost assessed also to taxpayers of state.

WHAT ATKINSON HAS BEEN PAID

Salary—1916 to 1922 @ $720 a year	$ 4,320.00
Free Office rent, heat, etc. Estimated at $480 a year	2,880.00
Commissions on Sewers	7,436.42
Commissions on Paving	35,074.84
Plans for New Waterworks	2,000.00
Commissions on parking, grading, street grading, etc.	1,585.87
White Way extension commission	196.74

$ 53,493.87

If this present unbusinesslike way of employing a city engineer is continued and the voters decide upon building a new water plant and his estimate of $704,420 for a new water system is confirmed by bids called for in the near future he will receive for engineer services and balance due on plans and specifications $37,074.84 in addition to salary of $60 a month and office rent free.

If the present water plant is purchased he will receive a commission of 5% on all improvements to the plant in excess of $500.

Fargo several times larger than Bismarck pays its city engineer a salary of $3,000 per annum and furnishes assistants. He must give his full time to the city and any fees received by him for outside work must be turned into the city treasury. This gives the city good and faithful service.

If a straight salary system is adopted here, thousands will be saved to the taxpayers and they will get better service.

If elected we pledge a complete audit of all city affairs and the publication as provided by law of regular financial statements of the city's business. Statutory provisions for periodic financial statements have been ignored. The taxpayers should know quarterly the true financial condition of the city which after all is a five or six million dollar corporation.

A. C. HINCKLEY.
F. W. MURPHY.

City Engineer's Blunders Costly

Draws Big Bonus From Treasury

THAT SEWER BLUNDER

Probably the most startling evidence of a waste of taxpayers money by City Engineer Atkinson was in the construction of a trunk line sewer from Third Street to the Missouri River.

He first made plans for a 36 inch sewer to empty into an 18 inch sewer 1,400 feet this side of the Missouri River, this sewer was already a part of the city's sanitary system. It was discovered, however, when the 18 inch sewer was reached it was found that the new 36 inch sewer was a foot and a half below the outlet of the 18 inch sewer.

It was necessary to go through to the river at an additional cost of $11,498.25 on which blunder the city engineer received from the tax payers a commission of $550. His total fee on a $46,000 city sewer was $2,223.93 in addition to his $60 a month and free office rent.

Some of the paving in districts No. 1 is beginning to disintegrate. Little has been done to bring the paving contractors to book on their bond. Lax supervision is what the city gets for its $60 a month and office rent free.

On all sides even an untrained eye can see the bungling and costly mistakes in the laying out of public work. A housecleaning at the city hall is necessary to secure greater efficiency and lower taxes.

F. W. MURPHY

F. W. Murphy has been a successful businessman and a heavy taxpayer. He came to Bismarck about eighteen years ago as manager of the Capital City Bottling Works. He disposed of this property and later established the Bismarck Bottling Works which business he conducted successfully for many years recently retiring to devote his time to his other interests.

He is owner of the Rose and the Murphy apartments and is vitally interested in the welfare of the city.

Because of his property interests he is a large consumer of water and is especially interested in securing all possible benefits as any other water consumer in the city.

His standing in the community refutes the idle charge by his opponents that he is the candidate of a clique or interest. Mr. Murphy was requested by a number of voters to make this race in the interests of those who felt that public moneys were being squandered and that the city's affairs were not being handled efficiently.

If elected he will bring to the city's affairs the same sagacity which has made him a successful businessman. He has been a builder and a booster for a bigger, cleaner and better Bismarck. Confident in the future of Bismarck, he has invested a large amount of money in real estate and buildings.

Campaign Managers for Larson and French have been seeking to brand Mr. Murphy as the tool of certain interests because he is exercising his constitutional right and privilege of seeking office at the hands of the people. Of course those who know Mr. Murphy's record in Bismarck realize that these charges are puerile and mendacious.

Women get out and vote to clean up Police Administration. Do you want another George Haneckeyk on the City Police force?
